Emerging Author McKenna Sharrer Publishes a Collection of Young Adult Fiction Stories About Change

Now Available for Review

Los Angeles, CA, April 17, 2018 – Upcoming author McKenna Sharrer announces the publication of her first collection of short stories, Winding Roads of Change. This e-book features three short stories about loss, change, and heartbreak. Her e-book is available at Smashwords for $6.

"The Old Frame" follows Toby, a man in his late thirties, who is dealing with his father's death. Stuck looking at the old frame that hangs in his bedroom, he has to learn to face the past before it's too late.

Over a fourteen-hour train ride, "Train to Change" uncovers the fears and misfortunes of an eighteen-year-old girl. She must defeat the monsters in her mind to become free from the past.

"The Letter" dives inside the mind of Tommy, a quiet, secluded teen, who is trying to come to terms with the death of his grandmother. As he relives the memories at her old house, he finds something that changes his life forever.

McKenna Sharrer is an aspiring Young Adult novelist. She is earning her BFA in Creative Writing from Full Sail University. Her flash fiction, "Trying to Change", was published by Scarlet Leaf Review in March of 2017. In her free time, McKenna enjoys studying new languages.

McKenna has been able to publish her first short story collection thanks to Smashwords.com. Smashwords.com is an e-book distribution site where you can sample e-books on most of your smart phones, tablets, and E-readers.
